About Me

My name is Anthony Lupino, and I am a senior at Temple University. I am majoring in Sport and Recreation Management. I currently live in Lansdale, Pennsylvania, which is a suburb of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

I have taken a long and winding road to get where I am today. I briefly attended Montgomery County Community College out of high school, and then I transferred to Slippery Rock University as an elementary education major. After a year and a half in the program, I decided that this career was not for me, and I reevaluated my life and collegiate goals.

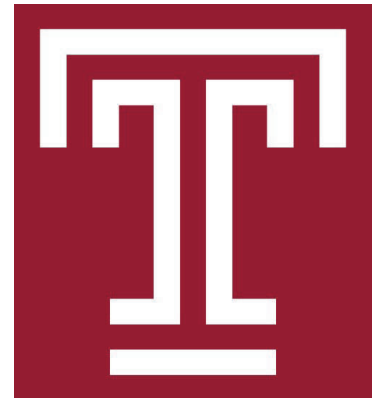

I soon left Slippery Rock, and reenrolled at my community college. It was at this point, where I made the choice of pursuing an Associates Degree in Liberal Studies and applying to Temple University as a Sport & Recreation Management major. I successfully completed both tasks and in the fall of 2008, I began my journey at the School of Tourism and Hospitality Management.

Working with the community has always been a joy of mine. Improving and bringing joy to people's lives is very rewarding to me. Community relations gives me an avenue to pursue these interests, while being involved in such a unique field. Sports goes beyond fandom and revenues, it connects with public on an emotional level. I hope to parlay my passion and interest of community involvement on a professional level. Establishing and maintaining positive and long-lasting relationships with the community will always be my goal. Giving back should never become a chore; all should embrace it.

Industry Experience

While attending Temple University, I completed my junior internship and have volunteered for numerous industry related positions. My internship at Upper Merion Park & Recreation gave me the opportunity to interact with the community, and create a better understanding of a government-funded organization that is functioning in these difficult economic times. I volunteer annually for the JDRF walk in Philadelphia. This holds a special place in my heart, because my younger sister was diagnosed with Juvenile Diabetes at age 10. Her battle with the disease has increased my awareness and support of helping to find a cure in her lifetime. Some other volunteer efforts include Special Olympics, coaching youth softball, Relay for Life, and the 2009 Philadelphia Visions Awards Dinner.
