

SPECIAL POINTS OF INTEREST:

Tourism and Hospitality Management Major.

Member of the Professional Convention Management Association.

Ten years experience in the Hospitality and event planning field.

Aspiring to be an event planner.

INSIDE THIS ISSUE:

Introduction 2

My experience 2

One Great Experience 2

My Strengths 3

My weaknesses 4

5

6

Katieann Rowan

VOLUME 1, ISSUE 1

Introduction

My name is Katieann Rowan, I am a twenty six year old student at Temple University. I have been working in the Hospitality Industry for ten years and have worked my way up from the bottom starting as a bus girl at a local catering facility and moving my way up to assisting managers and owners of a brand new bar and restaurant in Newtown, Pennsylvania. I anticipate an internship within the Hospitality Industry and look forward to an exciting career in event planning following my graduation in August of 2010.

I strive to become a better student and to better understand my strengths and weaknesses, so that I can be successful when I enter into my internship and then finally when I enter into the real world, where I will unquestionably face many issues. I am certain that the knowledge I have gained at Temple University and the hands on experience that I have and will be exposed to, with regard to the required internships, I will be ready to face the workforce head on.

My experience

My experience lies within the Hospitality Industry. I have learned through hard work and determination what it means to be successful within this very demanding business. During the ten years that I have spent working in the Hospitality industry I have been exposed to event planning, improving customer and employee satisfaction, thinking creatively, and thinking on my feet should problems arise, and they have! I also have experience with a variety of different computer application systems. Knowledge of Micros, Aloha, and other basic computer systems along with certifications for Responsible Alcohol Management (RAMP) have supplied with the knowledge required to accomplish success in the future.