

Future Sport Agent

My name is Nadia Bosket, a West Philadelphia native. I am a senior in the Marketing and Sport and Recreation Management program at Temple University and will graduate in August of 2010 with a BS and a BBA. Throughout the years I have experienced a lot and have met many inspirational people who have helped mold me into the individual that I am today.

Although I grew up in the inner city I had the opportunity of attending private schools in the suburbs of Philadelphia. This put me in a different environment and enabled me to interact with others who were different from me. I had the privilege of attending a very prestigious high school called Notre Dame Academy De Namur located in Villanova, Pennsylvania. Notre Dame is an all girl, private college preparatory school. While attending Notre Dame my interest in sports began to grow. I was a member of many athletic teams such as track, rugby, lacrosse, and tennis. Attending this school led to many opportunities. I was exposed to things that many children in my neighborhood were not familiar with.

My innovative thinking and love for sports led me to choose a major in Marketing and Sport and Recreation Management. This semester I helped start Temple University's first and only black news paper titled the New Voice Newsletter, which I am the 1st VP. This paper discusses African American athletes and scholars, national and international news, local events, black healthy issues, and etc. pride through the written word. I am also the Event Coordinator of the Sport Recreation Professional Association.

One of my greatest past times is sports. My main career goal in life is to become a successful Sport Agent. I have a lot of experience in the sport and entertainment industry. My past experience includes working with the Philadelphia 76ers and Creative Artists Agency. I also worked as a basketball coach for the 76ers Summer Hoops Tour. I worked at Creative Artists Agency as a player representation intern. Creative Artists Agency is one of the world's largest entertainment management firms. Their A-list clients include LeBron James, Oprah, Brad Pitt, and Steven Spielberg just to name a few. Some of my responsibilities included creating draft charts, player and coach bios and statistical analysis of clients and competitors. I assisted the agents and clients in day to day tasks. Working for this company reassured me that I was in the right place. Despite the many obstacles that I will face due to being a female in a male dominated industry, I am ready.
